Stance: Customer objects to the Planning Application

Comment Reasons:

Comment: When objectively assessed:

The proposal relies heavily on surrounding residential streets to absorb event-scale congregation.

Peak congregation is weekly, predictable, and repeatable.

The site sits within a constrained cul-de-sac typology adjacent to a large primary school.

The fallback comparison is legally weak and operationally incomparable.

Cumulative modelling is incomplete.

Structural overspill parking is acknowledged by the applicant's own evidence.

Taken together, these factors demonstrate a credible risk of unacceptable highway impact and severe cumulative stress within the meaning of the NPPF.

The Council is therefore respectfully requested to:

REFUSE planning permission on the grounds of unacceptable highway safety risk, severe cumulative parking stress, and material harm to residential amenity.
