Comment Reasons:

Comment: I am writing to support the planning application to turn the old Sutton ambulance centre into a community centre and prayer hall.

The community is already hiring out St John's Church hall in Belmont to be used for prayers. The hall is full of people from the local area every time it is used, and so Friday prayers are staggered to reduce the congestion in the area. By moving to the ambulance station, it is further away from the main road, and there is a lot more space for parking on the roads, as well as having more parking available inside the centre itself. Having said this, most people are within walking distance of the hall, and so they walk to the centre, already reducing any congestion there may be.

The organisers are so careful when it comes to the local residents near the Church at the moment, always taking a moment to remind everyone about parking safely and being mindful of the houses in the area.

Muslims are also a respectful community, without any loud music disturbing the neighbours or being outside until the early hours of the morning. The hall can also be hired out to be used for the rest of the local community - not just for the Muslims, similar to how Churches are used in the local area.
